the primary, has he been out of the state.

On April 13, Mr. Roosevelt will be one of the speakers at a Jefferson Day dinner in Washington. On the program, with him are four favoriteson candidates, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, former Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

Democratic leaders of the northwest are arranging a Jefferson Day dinner for April 18 and have invited Mr. Roosevelt to speak. He tentatively has accepted the invitation.

The governor will start south for a vacation and rest at Warm Springs, Ga. about April 22, stopping en route at Richmond, Va., to attend the governors' conference on April 25 and 26. While the conference itself forbids political discussions it is likely that political confabs will have an unofficial place at the informal gatherings between meetings.

The governor will remain about three weeks at Warm Springs, where he goes twice a year for treatment for the effects of infantile paralysis. On his northward trip from the Georgia resort he is to stop off at Charlotte, N. C., for the Mecklenburg Independence Day observance.

MINNESOTA DEMOCRATS ARE PARTED BY WOMAN

MINNEAPOLIS, April 1.—(P)—A gray-haired, middle-aged woman today said "No" and with that vanished hope of reuniting Minnesota democrats before the party's national convention at Chicago in June.

Her decision made certain that two full slates of delegates from the state will compete for seats at the meeting to nominate the party's candidate for president. And knocking at the convention door at the head of one slate seeking admittance will be the woman. Mrs. Ruth Haynes Carpenter. When the party's state convention was held early in March and delegates instructed to support Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, were chosen, Mrs. Carpenter started a bolt of dissenters.

Pleasant Weather Promised for Today

Atlanta is under the wire for two or three days of excellent weather with increasingly warmer temperatures, according to C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist. The session is to start today with fair skies and "considerably warmer temperatures," he said in making his forecast Friday. Friday the mercury ranged between 39 and 64 degrees but today the readings will be 48 to 68 degrees, he said. "The warm weather and fine clear skies will continue for three days possibly," stated von Herrmann, "at least over the week-end."

been found for the assassination of Lewis Bohannon, whose body was found Thursday morning in a field near his hog pasture.

Bohannon was a well-to-do farmer, unmarried, living near Statenville, with relatives. Besides owning a considerable number of hogs and cattle, he owned a good farm and a body of virgin pine timber land. Wednesday morning he went out with a shotgun, presumably cruising over his timber land, although he had never spoken of anyone attempting to cut his timber. Wednesday afternoon late he went out to look over his hogs in the pasture, about a quarter of a mile from his house. Thursday morning his bullet-ridden body was found near the pasture.

Tobacco and Cotton Plantings Heavily Reduced in South Georgia.

METTER, Ga., April 1 .- The topacco crop in Candler county will be smaller this season than any other since the introduction of tobacco in this section. The freeze of a few days ago, that killed the majority of days ago, that killed the majority of the plants, makes it impossible for much acreage to be planted. The acreage will be cut more than 50 per cent from last season.

The cotton acreage will also be cut. If the acreage is large there will not be as much fertilizer used per acre as usual, therefore, a decrease in production is anticipated.

There will be one of the largest acreages of feedstuff planted this season than ever in the history of the county. Large acreages of oats are already growing and until the recent

IN COLUMBUS KILLING COLUMBUS. Ga., April 1.—(P)—
The grand jury has returned a no bill in the case of C. W. Blackmon, in the slaying of Maurice Bowles at the house of a negro woman near here. February 26. County police said they were told that Blackmon, Bowles and two women, while on an automobile ride, stopped at the house and that the two more agreed in a field that the two men angaged in a field that the two men and the two mobile ride, stopped at the house and that the two men engaged in a fight. Other officers, unaware of the death of Bowles, arrested Blackmon on the way to Columbus and charged him with driving an automobile while drunk. The grand jury indicted Blackmon on the driving charge. A coroner's jury previously had freed Blackmon of a charge of murdering Bowles.

for 436 consecutive days, an unprecedented record.

At the hour of going to press, 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Evening Independent weather observatory had not sighted the sun and Owner Lee B. Brown ordered the home edition distributed free, as has been his custom for more than 21 years. This is the 110th free issue, the first to be given away since Atlanta business and social lenders will pay tribute to Joseph D. Rhodes in funeral services to be hold at 3 January 20, 1931. o'clock this afternoon at the Rhodes home on Pace's Ferry road. Dr. Robert W. Burns, pastor of the Peachtree Christian church, will conduct the rites, and interment will be in the West View cemetery.

Mr. Rhodes, prominent Atlanta capitalist and president of the A. G. Rhodes & Son firm of south-wide furniture dealers, died Thursday at St. Joseph's infirmary. He underwent an emergency operation Friday of last week for appendicitis. Though his condition was serious, it was not thought to be critical until Thursday morning, when he took a sudden turn for the worse.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

The world has come a long way since little girls were required to sit primly upright in straight-back chairs with their hands folded in their laps, but it hasn't outgrown its respect for dignity.

'Dignity" is an old-fashioned word seldom used by this generation. It seems to have no place in an era of jazz dancing, hip flasks and exposed legs. But the quality called "modernism" hasn't changed the old standards, and a flippant and cynical age still pays unconscious tribute to men and instituthat do no clowning.

That sounds too preachy, but I don't know welse to say it. Here's what I mean. For all their ridicule of ancient ways, people still have a decent sense of the fitness of things. They despise a preacher who makes his pulpit a vaudeville stage. They expect the guests at a church wedding to behave with decent de-corum. They are shocked, as their elders were, ROBERT QUILLEN when anybody makes an unholy show of self. In short, they still require and respect dignity where dignity is due.

The consequences are obvious.

Atlanta has long been the musical center of the south and there is no manifesto. At first the government over the king's manifesto. At first the government seem less dignified than a president should be. The people can forgive thought of forbidding publication of thought of forbidding publication of the south and the jaunty upward tilt of his cigar made him seem less dignified than a president should be. The people can forgive stepidity, but they can't forgive lack of dignity. A certain popular magazine, striving almost pathetically to gain the advertising patronage justified by its circulation, looks in vain for an of its failure. To an outsider the explanation is obvious. The magazine lacks dignity. It is popular, but it isn't respected. Do you wonder what all of that has to do with you? Only this, my dear. The world judges girls as it judges candidates and magazines. Being willing to do anything once may win the applause of shallow-pates, but the part of the world that matters won't respect you unless you seem to respect yourself. Don't misunderstand. I'm not suggesting that you be prim and ssy. There is a time for whoopee and a time for nonsense. But the place for clowns is at the circus, and the world doesn't like them else-Love, (Copyright, 1982, for The Constitution.)

Gas Well Catches Fire In Oklahoma City Area

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 1.

(P)—The big Number 3 Holmes gas well of the British-American Oil Company, only three blocks from the Wheeler Grade school, in the northwest part of the Oklahoma City oil field, caught fire this afternoon.

Friction was believed to have ignited escaping gas while the well was flowing open. Immediately the flow was shut off, but the fire spread to tanks and was threatening other tanks in the vicinity, whipped by a stiff wind.

The section is covered with small residences, most of which have wells in back yards. The fire was being fought with chemicals by oil field and city firemen.

Speculation as to the importance of the development ranged from the possibility that authorities hoped to discover Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. himself, abducted from his home on the night of March 1, to the supposition that they had aroused new interest in the records of Betty Gow, Scottish nursemaid; Henry Johnson, her Norwegian friend, or Ollie Wheatley, English butler in the Lindbergh home.

PONTIAC REDUCES PRICES!

A Slashing Price Reduction in Pontiac 6 Prices Brings the Important New Features of Nineteen Thirty-Two Pontiac's Big-Car Riding Comfort, to a New Low Price Level.

Thus, as the national exhibit of General Motors products open, effective April 2, Pontiac Six, Chief of 1932 Values, further establishes its value leadership.

These reductions—up to $50 per car represent exceedingly important savings to motorists who desire the refinements and riding comfort usually found in larger cars, but who wish to purchase these qualities at a low price. These prices are the very lowest ever quoted for Pontiac cars and are for the finest and largest six-cylinder cars Pontiac has ever built. The resulting values are, we believe, the very greatest ever offered the American public during the whole of the motor car's history. They mean, a new basis of motor car values, a new incentive to the American people to buy motor cars now.

CHEVROLET REDUCES PRICES

And Issues an Important Statement of Policy for 1932

The leader always leads in giving value. Chevrolet—world's largest builder of cars for three out of the past five years—now takes pleasure in announcing substantial price reductions on the new Chevrolet Six.

These reductions are being announced on the eve of the national exhibits of General Motors Products which, opening tomorrow in the leading cities of the country, will feature special displays of various Chevrolet models.

The revised scale of Chevrolet prices now starts with a base price of $445, F. O. B. Flint, Michigan. This is the lowest figure at which a Chevrolet passenger car has ever sold.

QUALITY WILL BE MAINTAINED

The new Chevrolet Six is the same well-known product that was introduced to the public only a short time ago-and imme-Hiately won such a wide following. It offers you the built-in smoothness, quietness and flexibility that can only be achieved along with maximum economy in a six-cylinder engine. It offers that matchless driving combination—silent, non-clash syncro-mesh gear-shifting combined with free wheeling. It offers big, spacious Fisher bodies-styled gracefully long and low-and built of wood and steel-the same construction used on practically all high-priced cars today. It offers the same modern spring construction used in costly cars-four long, semi-elliptic springs, mounted parallel to the frame, and equipped with hydraulic shock absorbers. In addition, the new Chevrolet Six possesses the same basic design and construction that millions of Chevrolet owners have proved in billions of miles of service. Its dependability, durability and economy are known quantities.

THE SIX WILL BE CONTINUED

In making this announcement of new lower prices—Chevrolet issues an important statement of policy:

Chevrolet will keep on building a six. Our recently announced six has met with such widespread approval that it is our intention to continue with a six-cylinder engine.

Chevrolet pioneered the six in the field of low-priced automobiles, and today Chevrolet is more than ever convinced that a six-cylinder engine is the ideal type for a car of lowest price. The six is the one type of engine that strikes a perfect balance of smooth performance and maximum economy.

With anything less than a six, motoring enjoyment is sacrificed. For it is a well known engineering fact that six cylinders are the fewest that can be used in a car and avoid inherent vibration. Anything more than six cylinders and Chevrolet's unexcelled economy would be sacrificed. Chevrolet has proved that a six-cylinder motor can be engineered to operate at lower cost than any other type. And Chevrolet is committed to the policy of providing the utmost in motoring enjoyment that can be secured along with economy of operation.

Before deciding on any new low-priced automobile—read over Chevrolet's new reduced prices, and compare them with the prices of any other cars in Chevrolet's field. Compare what you get for every dollar that you pay. Then, you cannot fail to recognize the significant fact that the Chevrolet Six is now, more than ever, the great American value.

The bride entered with her father.

I. W. Myers. Her striking brunette beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown of ivory satin fashioned along princess lines and trimmed with exquisite real rose point and Duchesse lace, which was used to trim her mother's wedding gown. Rose point lace also trimmed the veil of ivory tulle, and the bride carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best mam E. S. Taliaferro, of Richmond, Va.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Myers, entertained at an elaborate reception at the Myon hotel. The spacious dining thall was arranged with quantities of colorful flowers. The tall columns were entwined with southern smilax and potted ferns and palms were also used effectively in the decorations.

In the receiving line were the members of the wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. Myers and Mrs. O. A. Miller, of Montville, N. J., mother of the bridegroom. On Rich's Meter Plan

Is the Most Practicable and Most Popular Way Ever Invented to Pay for Your

Electric Refrigerator

No Down Payment! No Monthly Payments! No Charge for the Meter I Trade-In Allowance for Your Old Ice Box!

Pick out the Majestic model you wish from our floor, and we deliver it to your home without obligation to you. Attached to the Majestic is a small slot-box called the meter. You put a quarter into the meter and this operates your refrigerator 24 hours. Then you put in another quarter and so on every 24 hours. That's all there is to it!

Every month we come by your home and collect the quarters from the meter and credit them to your account. When enough quarters have been collected to cover the price of the refrigerator, we give you a paid-in-full bill of sale and remove the meter. The Majestic refrigerator is then yours!

Atlanta and Athens, who recently created such a sensation at his concert in Elmira, N. Y. added another concert in Elmira, N. Y. added another concert success to his long list of achievements, when he was enthusiastically received at a piano recital at Anderson College, Anderson, S. C., Thursday evening.

Giving a similar program to the one in Elmira, a program called "Parallels and Contrasts in Piano Music," Mr. Hodgson captivated his Anderson audience with his unusual art and his program which was a variation from the usual hackneyed piano recital. His program consisted of a first movement of a Schytte Sonata, representing the creation of tone pictures in classic form; a group of preludes by representative piano composers, classic and romantic; a group of contrasting etudes; a nature group, and a group of classic and modern dances, illustrating the minuet, the gavotte, and the walts.

The program was warmly received.

A noted commentator once remarked that the most distinguished feature of Sarah Bernhardt's acting was the wide margin which she always kept between what she possessed and what she gave to her audience. She didn't tear the emotions to shreds and tatters. She kept them intact. There was always the impression that she concealed more grief than she displayed and that she hid more merriment than she uncovered, that the vibrant quality of the voice was not vibrant because she pulled out the "vox angelica" stop but because she pulled out the "vox angelica" stop but because she couldn't throttle entirely the electricity that surged through her. One had the feeling that no matter what she gave she had more to give whether of voice or emotion or imagination or interpretation.

Clearly this was one of the marks of her genius, but, friends, we commonplace creatures can learn a valuable lesson from the great Bernhardt. Are we properly margined in our lives? At the broker's, perhaps, for the broker takes care to see that we are, assuming that we have enough left to speak to the broker.

Both sides were vulnerable and North-South 80 to 00. (A critical position for East-West.) South dealt and bid one no-trump. All passed. Neither East nor West, being vulnerable, could afford to risk any kind of sacrifice bid.

Any kind of sacrifice bid.

Now, what, in this position, was West to lead? The convention-ridden player, of whom I have just written, would plank out the two of clubs and hope for the best. But observe that if he plays a club, West is leading away from a tenace position. He may from a tenace position. He may, that is, be leading from a suit in which he holds, of significant cards, the second and fourth best, where his adversaries hold the best and third best. In such a position, obviously, a trick is gained if the third move is made by the adversary.

The same argument applies to the lead of the three of diamonds. Here again, West, holding the Queen and nine twice guarded, may be risking the loss of a trick he could otherwise make if he opens the suit himself.

One of the most difficult problems one is up against at Contract is that of the Opening lead against a not trump declaration. If one has a good, establishable suit of one's own, or if partner has bid a suit, one knows, of course, how to proceed, but otherwise one is very often in a real quandary. The conventional lead in such circumstances—hallowed by a generation of usage—is that of the fourth best of one's longest suit. With many players, this fourth best card is led automatically, the stronger suit being chosen where there are two four-card suits to select from. But all experienced players know that nothing should be done by rote. This situation—the making of a blind lead against a notrump declaration—is essentially one where it pays to take a little thought.

There is a lot to be said for this

Opening One Notrump Bid With Forcing Takeout.
A bid of three in a suit, over partner's one notrump, is a Forcing Takeout indicating about 3 honor-tricks.
The bid suit will normally be a five-card suit or better. A response from the Opening bidder is obligatory.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: When Judy Allison had been in Chiengo for six months without finding work her father wired her to return to her small-town home. Downcast by her fallure, she went to the tea room in her rooming house. Dick Mason, chief radio announcer at WAOA, sat at her table. Impulsively Judy showed Dick her father's telegram. Following Dick's insistence, she reported for a radio tryout the following morning. From all the applicants, she was chosen for the "Beauty Builders' " program. While Judy was talking with Elton Day, writer of script for her programs, Lona Burdette came up and asked why he had thrown her down "for some new kid from the country." Day tells Judy Lona is additionable to many celebrities.

A telegram. Back in Hiawatha, people sent telegrams only when something terrible happened. Death. Or needing money in a hurry. Or— Mother! She'd been—she had had time with her heart, a while ago. Mother! "I can't open it. Elsie. I—" "It's already open, Judy. I opened it."

CHAPTER XVI.

"Why—"
"You told me about your mother of clock. And that's too long, Dick Mason. And I've got to go to that rehearsal first thing in the morning. And—Ummmim!"

The yawn triumphed again. A very small hand. And Dick took the very small hand in his and looked at it carefully. "Your hands are so soft," he said, in the deep voice that so many peon the soft of the control of the what it said."

"Yes. Better read, it Judy. Here."
Judy stared at the yellow paper and its smudged lines. The words danced. The words seemed to move.

"I know But Jude."

"Then—"
She opened the door, stepped out.
She knew she didn't want to leave the car; she knew she wanted to hear Dick Mason say "Judy!" again in the same way that made her heart jump. But story books don't happen.

"Judy."

"Dick, I've got to go in. Right away."

She pointed at a small square of light high up in the old building.

"Elsie's waiting up for me."

"Elsie's waiting up for me."

"Yes. The girl across the hall. I had to borrow her stockings tonight when I was dressing."

"But, surely, she's not waiting up for her stockings?"

"No." She giggled again. "She's waiting to hear about you,"

"About me?"

She studied Dick Mason's face closely. No. He wasn't asking for compliments. He honestly didn't know. He didn't think of his voice and of what his voice did, going over the radio into all the rooms where girls sit listening.

"About you. She thinks you're very handsome. And every night she listens for your voice."

"Ge?"

Like a small boy. Flattered, of course; but not hiding it. Not conceited. Not sure of his power. Not like Elton Day.

"Tre got to hurry. I'll see you in the morning, Dick."

"Ye got to hurry. I'll see you in the morning, Dick."

Margaret Maddox Beaten in Semi-Finals of North-South Meet CARDINALS WIN, 7 TO 3; BLETHEN GOES ROUTE

Gabby Street Likes Game Club Better Than Great One.

Sergeant Charles (Gabby) Street was talking about his world's champions Friday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park. "They are a game ball club," he said, " a good, game club. And I like that better than having a great ball club. Because often a great ball club isn't any good unless it is out in front. And when they get behind they don't do so well. But a game club—they are good whether they are out in front or behind. And often they are more dangerous when a bit behind.

"I know we are going to give the rest of the league plenty of trouble. But we'll have trouble, too. The Giants look great. The National league isn't like the American. We don't have any set-ups in our league.'

Gabby Street is a great personality. He looks like a sergeant, those fellows who are the backbone of the service. Being at the top hasn't changed Street at all. He is still affable, keen, and easy to meet.

In the minor league towns the affections of the fans are swayed by the managers and the stars. And the south has always been strong for the Cardinals since Sergeant Gabby Street took charge.

Parham is in an ideal spot. He can be sent to one of the many Cardinal farms. And the minute he is good enough he will be pulled right into the big show for his try there.

DIZZY TO HURL TODAY.

Dizzy Dean, who is, as he expresses it, "just a country boy," is feeling better. He is gaining back some of the lost weight which a severe cold took off before he reported. Dean has taken some pretty good lickings this spring but they don't count. He thinks Jakey Atz should do well in the Southern league: "Jakey had tough luck at Shreveport last year,"

The Atlanta Poxing commission was sustained match earlier in the week when the promoter was fined for the violation. Payment of the fine, however, was suspended by the court.

The boxing commission is facing a crisis. It needs the support of the fair-minded fans. It is a body of high-class men with the best interests of the city's sport at heart.

As might be expected, there are charges by the disgruntled that the commission and the newspapers are prejudiced. The newspapers could not be expected to support an unlicensed match. The commission is the duly constituted authority and deserves nothing but whole-hearted support. It has proved its integrity time after time.

papers during a day in Indian summer of 1930, and we recall having seen Charley Moore, now skipper of the Hartford (Eastern league) club, tear his hair and rush madky in the direction of a long-distance telephone booth.

The item dealt with the sale of Cain to the Athletics by the Carrollton (Ga.) club of the ex-Georgiarollton (Ga.) club of the ex-Georgia-Alabama league.

Charley Moore had the Macon club that year. One day during the spring, a young fellow, wearing a khaki shirt and a black necktie came to Charley Moore in the dugout and asked for a tryout on his ball club. Moore, who was always glad to help a youngster, took him on.
This lad, of a very powerful, stocky build, had just emerged from Uncle Sam's army in the Philippines or some place and no one knew anything about him, except that he had a fast ball that was a honey.

But Moore liked his speed. He heard that Carrollton, Ga., needed a pitcher. It would be a great idea. Charley thought, to send Merritt Cain, who was the boy with the sneaking fast ball, up there for experience. It didn't take Charley long to arrange this.

The season rocked on as all sea-The season rocked on as all seasons will. Charley became embroiled in the Sally league pennant race and forgot all about the doughboy. Now and then there came reports via grapevine that Cain was doing right well as a pitcher with Carrollton.

If memory is correct, Cain struck out something like 103 men in about 14 games.

14 games.
One day while sipping a soda One day while sipping a soda in a cross-roads drug store, Charley picked up a paper and read a notice about the sale of a pitcher named Cain to the Athletics. The name sounded familiar. Then it suddenly dawned on him that this was one and the same soldier boy he had sent up to the Georgia-Alabama league to learn how to pitch. Well, there never was a madder man than Charley was a madder man than Charley was at that mo-ment. What made Charley so ter-ribly mad was that he had forgotten to attach any strings to Cain when he sent him away in the spring, there being only a verbal agreement or competing.

being only a verbal agreement or something.

It seemed that officials of the Carrollton club had noticed that Charley had plenty of pitchers and had figured that he didn't need any more. Anyway, all Charley ever got for his frantic telephoning was a very heavy long-distance bill.

And that's all there is to the story except that the Athletics now own Cain, instead of Brooklyn, for which camp he was originally ticketed.

"Cain has pitched consistently good ball all spring and looks like he is ready for the big show," writes James C. Isaminger authoritatively in the Philadelphia Enquirer.

Gabby Street, the conquering Caesar of the major leagues, brought his world champion St. Louis Cardinals to Atlanta yesterday and sent his regular lineup out to drub the Crackers, 7 to 3.

Street, true to his promise, started his regulars and most of the heroes rewarded the fans with a bit of spectacular play.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley latched into one of Climax Blethen's pitches in the first inning with Frankie Frisch on base and hit it on out on the right field dump for a home run.

"Pepper" Martin, the newest sensation of all the Cardinal galaxy, got only one hit during the gave he cash customers a flash of his speed in the same inning when he was trapped between third and kome and run down after a hard chase.

Carleton was well-nigh unhittable, allowing the Crackers but five widely scattered blows. His control also was well-nigh perfect. Only in the eighth, when the champions made four errors when the champions made four errors behind him, did he allow any runs and the Crackers got all three of their runs in that frame.

Sylvester Johnson went in to pitch the ninth and gave notice of the fact that he is in fine form by striking out all three Crackers who faced him in that inning, including Duck McKee and Johnsy Cummings, pinch hitters, and Bobby Goff. And Johnson didn't throw a great many balls doing it. throw a great many balls doing it, ither.

Many less favorably situated leaders, however, gave way to the prevailing mood, which seemed to be influenced largely by the prospects of Jaxation. In many instances net losses were limited to fractions, although more substantial losses cropped out in a number of rails, utilities and specialties. Turnover of 1,529,180 shares was just above Thursday's.

Equities which are facing excise taxes were rather soft, this being especially true of the motor group. General Motors made a new low with Auburn, Studebaker, Hudson, Nash and Packard. Coca-Cola had an extreme reaction of more than 3 and Eastman wilted to about the same extent Drug. Dupont and Allied Chemical were off a point or so. North American, People's Gas and Standard Gas reflected the market's current attitude, toward utilities, but Electric Bond & Share units were steadier.

Heaviness of rails was associated in some quarters with the interstate commerce commission's stand on Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to pay off banking indebtedness. Although the larger railroad stock losses

NEW YORK, April 1.—With the rails in new low territory, industrials are enin new low territory, industrials are en-gaged in a severe test of resistance around previous bear market lows. Today's exhi-bition was encouraging since it furnished evidences that long pull investment buying evidences that long pull investment buying was coming into the market. Closing rally began somewhat too late to supply any indication of degree of aggressiveness which might develop on a technical recovery, but it was at least sufficient to indicate that opportunities to cover hort commitments are still being sought by those who believe the decline has progressed to a point where all but specifically unsound situations have been amply discounted and that a secondary recovery of sizable proportions might now logically be expected.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The market today was largely influenced by action of securities. An early moderate advance was followed by a recession to practically the lows of yesterday but in the late trading prices advanced to best of the session. Final quotations were 3 to 8 points up. Heiging was light. The co-operatives, however, were credited with being steady sellers, especially on rallies. There was also selling by Wall Street and local professionals, and covering by the latter was largely responsible for late upturn. We would not be at all surprised at further technical rallies though we feel these should be used for making sales. Cotton Letters.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO. April 1.—(P) — The bottom fell out of the corn market today, and prices outdid the lowest record heretofore this season and for many years back.

Stop-loss selling of corn developed owing partly to seasonal liquidating of accounts by holders of May delivery contracts, but also as a result -of almost complete absence of shipping demand here and on account of fairly large country offerings. An added incentive to let go of corn was word that planting of the new 1932 corn crop had got under way in Oklahoma.

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 60

Princess Janzara did not purchase Tarzan, slave of permit it. Very angry, she walked from the throne room where she had come to examine the captive. When she reached her own apartments and was beyond her royal sire's sight and hearing, the beautiful girl gave way to a frenzy of frustrated passion. Pushing her maids from her she stamped her foot and muttered to herself: "I shall own that slave yet and kill him, too, if I desire."

The king rose languidly from his chair. "Take it Zoanthrohago. Her father, the king, would not to the quarrier," he said, pointing at Tarzan. "Te!l the officer in charge that it is the king's wish the it be not overworked or injured." When the king had left, one warrior whispered to another: "The old half-wit thinks he invented the formula that has been tried on Zoanthrohago's slave." "Sometimes I think I can abide his arrogance no longer,' answered his companion.

sarran of the Apes was led directly from the Royal come to the quarries of Veltorismakus, a half-nile away. A ninth dome was under construcion. Toward it wound a line of burdened slaves rom the entrance of the quarry. Into this hole the ape-man was conducted. Just below the sur-nce, in a well-lighted chamber, he was turned over to the officer in charge, to whom the king's orders concerning this new slave were given. "Your name?" demanded the officer, opening a large book that rested on the table where he sat.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"He is as dumb as the Zertacolols," explained the commander of Tarzan's escort; "therefore he has no name." "We will call him THE GIANT then," said the officer, "for as such he has been known since his capture." He wrote in his book the word for giant, "Zuanthrol," together with the name of Tarzan's owner and the city where the ape-man had been captured in battle. Calling a warrior to him the officer said: "Take him to the timbering crew in tunnel 13 at the 36th level."
